

Re-usable Fabric Baby Wipes

a sewing tutorial

You'll need

- 1 yard of flannel
- 1 yard of terrycloth
- Matching thread
- Scissors or a rotary cutter with mat
- Rulers
- Sewing machine or serger (for finishing)

Makes about 20 to 28 wipes

Directions:

1. Start out by cutting eight-inch squares from both your flannel and terrycloth fabrics.
2. Lay one square of flannel on top of one square of terrycloth, wrong sides in, right sides out.
3. Using a tight zig-zag stitch, machine sew around the entire outer edge of each square, or use a serger to finish the edges.
4. Snip off any dangling fabric or thread with a pair of scissors.
5. Wash the finished wipes in hot water, then dry them on a normal setting with no fabric softener or dryer sheets.

Usage & Laundering

Spritz the wipes with plain water, or with a natural diapering spray, like the one shown above. Gently wipe baby's bum clean, then discard the wipe into your laundry pile.

Wipes should be washed at high heat with your preferred baby laundry detergent. Never use fabric softener or dryer sheets when laundering your wipes, as the residue will make them less absorbent.
